15. SUMMARY:
 (C) This report contains information obtained from an enemy document captured on 13 May 1970, and concerns instructional material prepared by C69 ((COSVN)) Youth Group Current Affairs Committee. The material, dated 20 March 1970, outlines requirements and guidelines for activities of Youth Groups throughout SVN for the second and third quarters of 1970.

REQUIREMENTS AND GUIDELINES FOR YOUTH ACTIVITIES IN THE SECOND AND THIRD QUARTERS

Since the Party's Resolution 9 and Directive 60/CTNT and Resolution 3 of the Group were implemented, the people's movement, particularly the youth movement, has made significant progress. The Group's achievements were progressive, and it set good examples and gained precious new experiences. The ((youth)) movement seemed to be in a position to grow rapidly.

However, the youth movement has not yet expanded widely, and its increase in strength is still far from satisfying the ever increasing requirements of the Revolution. Enthusiasm and potential strong points have not yet been developed, and weak points have not yet been rectified. This has limited the contributions of the Group to the common revolutionary movement.

On the basis of Resolution 3 and subsequent directives of Group C69, ((of COSVN)), and based on the situation in the past months and the possible development of the situation in forthcoming months, the guidelines and requirements for Group tasks throughout SVN are as follows:

I. REQUIREMENTS OF THE YOUTH AND TEENAGER PROSELYTING TASK IN THE SECOND AND THIRD QUARTERS OF 1970.

Requirements of the youth and teenager proselyting task must be formulated in accordance with Resolution 9, Directive 136, and Directive 4/CT70 of C69. The present basic requirements are to "build up the revolutionary forces in the three areas ((VC controlled, disputed, and RVN controlled)); to crush the enemy accelerated pacification program; to foil his attempt to Vietnamize the war; and to compel the US to get rid of the Thiệu-Kỳ-Khiêm Government and rapidly and completely withdraw its troops from SVN so that we may gain ever greater victories and proceed toward complete victory."

The requirements of the Group in the days to come are:

1. Understand Resolution 9 and its subsequent directives, Directive 60/CTNT, Resolution 3 and subsequent directives of Group C69; make Group echelons, Group members, and youths fully aware of the situation, our great and overall victories, and the serious and total enemy failures; point out the enemy's weak points, which are becoming more serious with each passing day, and the malicious US schemes towards youths; understand the difficulties faced by youths; and accurately evaluate and put confidence in the revolutionary capability of youths. It is also necessary to create a new atmosphere in the youth movement; inspire youths with optimism and enthusiasm so that they will dash forward and play a key part in the spontaneous uprising movement to smash the enemy's accelerated pacification program; motivate them to eliminate reliance on higher echelons, balking at hardships and difficulties, shirking attitudes and hesitation in attacking the enemy; and motivate them to renounce any intention of surrendering, oppose the enemy's decadent culture which is developing rapidly and poisoning the spirit of our youth; and win over and protect youths.

2. Enthusiastically strengthen the "Five-Volunteers," the "Four-Braveries," and the "Four Don'ts" movements everywhere; strengthen the guerrilla warfare movement and strive to step up the suppression of tyrants; break the enemy's oppressive control and seize power; oppose enemy conscription, win over and protect youths; and regularly proselyte youths to join the armed forces. When the opportunity is favorable, promote recruitment for our armed forces in order to frustrate the accelerated pacification plan and defeat the US imperialist scheme of Vietnamizing the war.

3. Enthusiastically develop our forces in all fields.

The personnel strength of the Youth Group should be double what it was at the end of Sep 69. It is also imperative to step up the development of the youths' illegal and legal organizations; to strive to recruit Group members in cleared villages and hamlets; to improve the quality of the available Group members; to attain the criteria to assure that by the end of Jun 70 one-third of the existing Group Chapters will have become "Four-Excellences" Chapters; and to continue to increase the number of "Four-Excellences" Group Chapters.

4. Provide effective leadership to improve working procedures; improve the steering machinery of the Youth Group at all levels and in Group Headquarters; train cadre, particularly of Group Chapters, and village Youth Group members; and stabilize the organization of the Group's machinery at all levels.

5. Step up the task of educating and protecting teenagers throughout the three ((VC controlled, disputed and RVN controlled)) areas.

II. SPECIFIC TASKS.

1. Propaganda, indoctrination, and proselyting tasks.

We should utilize the five indoctrination topics mentioned in Resolution 3. We must use them flexibly according to the situation of the areas and objectives to be indoctrinated.

To carry out the propaganda, indoctrination, and proselyting tasks during the next six months we should pay attention to:

a. Indoctrinating and implementing the Party's new directive titled "Continue to Implement Directive 60/CTNT and Step Up the Youth Proselyting Task."

In this directive, the Party reviewed the implementation of Directive 60/CTNT by the Party itself and Group Headquarters at all levels. The Party prescribed the missions and leadership requirements of the Party's youth proselyting task. It also specified immediate and long-range requirements for the entire Party.

Upon receipt of this directive, Group Headquarters at all levels, should prepare reports suggesting means of disseminating the directive. Prior to this they must restudy Directive 60/CTNT and draft a report reviewing their leadership in implementing Directive 60/CTNT and evaluating the results of Party and Group youth proselyting task. On this basis, the Group should work out plans to provide proper leadership to implement this directive and Directive 60/CTNT according to the situation of each area.

All echelons of Youth Group Headquarters should thoroughly study these two directives and consider them as handbooks for use under all circumstances. This directive is to be ~~first studied~~ within the ((Youth)) Group. Efforts should be made to finish studying ~~these~~ directives by the end of Sep 70. ~~Then they~~ will be studied by villages and Group members.

b. Subjects to be emphasized in accomplishing the propaganda, education, and proselyting tasks:

On the basis of the five requirements ((of the youth and teenager proselyting tasks)), a political reorientation course to indoctrinate Group members on Uncle Ho's testament and his five teachings, as compiled and explained by the Propaganda and Training Section, Youth Group, COSVN, should be conducted under the form of a talk on the subjects: "Nothing is more Precious than Independence and Freedom; and Fight to Drive the US Troops out of Vietnam and Topple the Puppet Government." The purposes of this course are to increase patriotism, promote hatred between the US aggressors and their traitorous lackeys, heighten Group members' class awareness, and instill a nationalist spirit based on the working class concept. Paralleling indoctrination on national, revolutionary, and Group traditions, Group members should also be taught the people's traditions of conducting spontaneous uprisings and destroying parts of "strategic hamlets;" and be well informed on achievements attained during the summer phase and on the development of the "Five-Volunteers," "Four-Braveries," and "Four Don'ts" movements. Youth Group members and youths should be immediately indoctrinated so they will be able to accurately evaluate all of our great successes and the enemy's serious defeats, and will be aware of the enemy's stubborn nature and our extremely favorable opportunities. They must realize that they will have to accept and overcome all hardships and difficulties and must make extraordinary efforts to gain great success in the days to come.

Specific requirements for each type of area:

In lowlands:

Propagandize and motivate all youths by any means to create new vitality in lowlands and make them enthusiastic and self-confident. Make youths participate positively in the Revolution according to their capabilities by taking part in the "Five-Volunteers" movement in a spontaneous, enthusiastic, and spectacular manner. This means that youths must overcome all difficulties and the rigors of war to kill tyrants, eliminate traitors, and break the enemy's oppressive control. In addition, they should disorganize the People's Self-Defense Force, participate in the war, and support combat troops. They should be determined to hold their ground, defend liberated areas, and prevent youths from being drafted by the enemy. Then, they must attack the enemy positively by carrying out the enemy and military proselyting task and the production mission.

In towns, cities, and the outskirts of Saigon:

Indoctrinate the majority of youths so that they will be aware of all the enemy's schemes and tricks, especially forced concrition, the open-arms program, ((the dissemination of a decadent culture aimed at)) poisoning and debauching youths, and the scheme of taking advantage of religions and superstitions, etc ... ((sic)). Arouse youths' hatred of the enemy, and create a new vitality for the youth movement in towns. Motivate youths to loosen the enemy's oppressive control, kill tyrants, disorganize the People's Self-Defense Force, oppose forced conscription, participate in the "Four Braveries" and "Four Don'ts" movements at all levels with both sporadic activities and large-scale movements. Establish penetration bases to oppose forced conscription for defense, and to create favorable conditions for ((VC/NVA)) troops to participate in the war. Motivate youths to spread out in liberated areas to earn a living and to participate in the Revolution according to their capabilities when the situation allows.

Rely on overt newspapers, our radio station, leaflets, the people's struggle movement, climaxing attack phases, and attacks on tyrants and US personnel to instigate discussions among youths during seminars, memorial services, etc ... ((sic)). Create an enthusiasm to attack the enemy through public opinion. Indoctrinate all Group members, association members, hard core cadre, and sympathizers to become propagandists for the Revolution.

In mountainous areas: Propagandize and motivate all youths to give the youth movement awareness and a sense of control in mountainous areas. Overcome difficulties to create base areas, and build a new life. Contribute the strength of youths to the Revolution to enable it to be victorious.

2. Continue to step up the "Five-Volunteers" movement throughout the three areas in order to frustrate the accelerated pacification and Vietnamization programs.

Taking advantage of youthful enthusiasm to attack the enemy continuously, and our people's and youths' spontaneous uprising tradition, the "Five-Volunteers" movement should be greatly strengthened in all areas in a spectacular, enthusiastic, and continuous manner in an attempt to create a combined strength to smash the accelerated pacification program and defeat the enemy's scheme of Vietnamizing the war.

Specific requirements to be met by each type of area:

a. Lowlands

1. Try to motivate the majority of cadre, agents, Group members, and a large number of youths to participate in guerrilla warfare and to enlist in overt and secret armed forces, including hamlet, village, and inter-village guerrilla units, specialized units, tyrant elimination youth cells, oppressive control breaking assault cells, armed propaganda youth cells, spontaneous uprising assault cells, and secret guerrilla and self-defense units, in order to kill enemy forces and destroy his war facilities. The purpose is to gather youths, to kill tyrants, break the enemy's oppressive control, disorganize the People's Self-Defense Force, and frustrate the accelerated pacification program. Their missions also consist of serving as hard core elements in the liberated areas, defending villages, and protecting youths.

Build a new life similar to that in liberated areas in order to win over youths in areas still under the enemy's oppressive control.

2. Rely on the broad and strong "Five-Volunteers" movement and the youth movement to participate in guerrilla warfare armed activities and to launch spectacular service enlistment motivation campaigns among the Youth Group guerrillas and armed combat youth organizations when conditions are favorable. These motivation campaigns will serve as the keystone for the common service enlistment movement, and will make great leaps forward. The purpose is to provide replacements promptly to the local forces, the main forces, and the full time concentrated Assault Youth Group of Mién ((possibly COSVN)). In doing so, efforts should be made to carry out the propaganda and indoctrination successfully and to maintain the local movements.

3. Ensure that assault youth organizations and agents are able to serve as keystones. Motivate a large number of youths to serve as civilian laborers. Support the battlefield and combat troops during climaxing phases as well as at other moments.

In short, in lowlands in general, especially in the Mekong Delta, in the forthcoming days we have to promote the "Five-Volunteers" movement to create favorable conditions to support the common movement, to change the balance of power between the enemy and friendly forces, and to create a new situation.

b. In mountainous areas:

1. Mobilize Group members and youths to participate in guerrilla warfare to counter the enemy Special Forces, reconnaissance groups, and the spread of toxic chemicals to destroy our ((VC)) crops.

2. Successfully organize and manage the assault youths and agencies. Regularly assign youths to civilian labor missions to serve the battle, the front, and the corridors.

3. Ensure that Youth Group members play a vital role in increasing farm production and establishing revolutionary base area.

Both lowlands and mountainous areas must be determined to hold "meetings for Determined-to-Win Youths in the Five-Volunteers movement" after each phase of activity in order to make preliminary and final achievement reports, and to grant awards and citations to the outstanding individuals and units of the movement. In addition, conduct military training and wrestling courses and coordinate with village unit headquarters to hold meetings to develop initiative to kill the enemy.

c. Cities, provincial capitals and outskirts of Saigon.

Initiate the "Five-Volunteers" movement in cities, provincial capitals, and areas surrounding Saigon by implementing the "Four-Braveries" and the "Four-Oppositions" movements. The "Four Braveries" are:

1. Bravely conduct military proselyting activities and oppose enemy conscription.

2. Bravely participate in combat activities.

3. Bravely wear down and destroy enemy strength and war potential.

4. Bravely annihilate tyrants, seize power, and protect the ((revolutionary)) administrations.

The "Four-Oppositions" are:

1. Oppose enemy general mobilization and militarization.

2. Oppose depraved culture.

3. Oppose violation, terrorism, plundering, and looting.

4. Oppose racial discrimination.

The "Four-Braveries" and the "Four-Oppositions" should be increased to meet the following requirements:

1. Widely spread the movement to oppose enemy conscription and direct public opinion to oppose US and Puppet conscription to protract this aggressive and traitorous war. Paralleling the development of the military proselyting youth movement to disorganize US Puppet ranks and People's Self-Defense Force, and when opportunities arise, we should mobilize and introduce the youths to liberated areas.

2. Actively improve and develop the guerrilla warfare movement of youths in cities. Train youths to fight to protect themselves against enemy conscription. Promote hatred and class discrimination to motivate the youths to join secret youth and secret guerrilla forces. Based on level of awareness, assign missions from higher to lower levels, including the missions of assassinating tyrants and fighting the enemy under more difficult conditions.

3. Heighten agents and youths' fighting spirit in cities in order to be ready to help and join in combat activities when troops infiltrate the cities. Be ready to participate in and help the people conduct face to face struggles to demand social welfare, democracy, the overthrow of Thiệu-Kỳ-Khiêm, and the establishment of a peace cabinet.

4. Coordinate struggles opposing general mobilization, militarization, depraved culture, racial discrimination, looting, and plundering with struggles introducing slogans concerning emergency demands of every social class, such as opposing the flunking of large numbers of students examinations ((sic)) for the purpose of creating favorable conditions for a continuous and regular struggle against US imperialists and their henchmen. On this basis, unmask the enemy's hypocritical face and awaken the people. Direct and support large-scale struggles in Saigon and other cities for mutual support and to form a political struggle front.

Proselyte the youths to leave enemy ranks for our ((VC)) side, disorganize the People's Self-Defense Force, indoctrinate, guide, and organize the youths into our self-defense force in order to protect them from being recaptured by the enemy. If the opportunity arises, send them to the liberated areas to join the Revolution.

3. Build up ((Group)) strength, train cadre, and improve Group machinery.

The development of forces, especially youth forces, is becoming an extreme emergency. It serves both the immediate victories and the future complicated struggles. Therefore the task of building up Group strength is very important. It determines future victories.

Following are some basic points which should be accomplished.

a. Development activities

In parallel with promoting the "Five-Volunteers" movement, recruit more Group members for the Hồ Chí Minh Course until the end of June 1970. Afterwards, Group echelons should prepare reports on the general development of Group members. A preliminary report should be prepared immediately. Based on the above, regularly and actively develop Group members.

Attention should be paid to recruiting legal Group members, female Group members, and members of ethnic minorities, religious organizations, guerrilla forces, and civilian organizations. Prior to June 1970, try to increase the number of Group members to twice what it was in September 1969, excluding personnel losses or personnel in the army (local force and higher).

Then, continue to increase the number of Group members until there are more Group members than Party members in agencies. After gaining experience in the movement, some Group Chapters in Trà Vinh and Mỹ Tho increased the number of their Group members to twice the number of Party members in the Party Chapters. This proves that Group membership can be increased easily, but the point is that Group echelons should attend to the development of Group members so that the number of Group members will increase, especially in the coming period.

Hamlets and villages in cleared areas should try to recruit Group members. Where Group members are available, we must set up Labor Youth Group Sub-Chapters and Group Chapters to lead the people and the youths.

Paralleling the development of Group members, actively develop political organizations led by village Group headquarters and Group Chapters, including liberation youth cells and Youth Group cells in charge of resisting the US. Recruit more students for liberation student Youth Groups.

At the same time we should strengthen the organizations in charge of protecting youths' basic rights, including organizations which oppose ((GVN)) conscription, the psywar entertainment organization, the homework organization, the organizations for production and work in different areas etc... ((sic)). It is also necessary to activate key Group members through whom we can control the youths.

b. Consolidation task:

Make tremendous efforts to develop Four-Excellences Group Chapters so that one-third of the Group Chapters are Four-Excellences Group Chapters by the end of Jun 70. Prepare a preliminary report on the task of developing Four-Excellences Group Chapters in order to take corrective measures, to provide more effective leadership in the future, and attain a higher number of Four-Excellences Group Chapters.

In areas where the enemy is carrying out his pacification and encroachment program, the ((Youth)) Group should contact Group members who are leaving the areas or being compelled to participate in the People's Self-Defense Force organizations, then indoctrinate and assign them missions. Create favorable conditions for assigning them suitable missions in different situations.

Motivate Group members and cadre in general and those in the guerrilla forces in particular to carry out the Group development task and to conduct propaganda and training activities to motivate the youths to participate in the Five Assault Movement and other missions.

Various Group echelons should contact various political agencies in the army to be able to discuss the political task of the movement at any moment in order to indoctrinate Group members in the army to carry out the task of motivating the youths.

c. The task of training ((Group)) cadre and improving the machinery:

Expand the task of training cadre, especially cadre of Group Chapters and village Groups. Recruit cadre among workers, women, ethnic minorities, religious parties, students, teenagers, and those who have ((GVN)) legal status. It is necessary to conduct short training courses to solve the essential requirements for the task at every level; hold topical meetings to disseminate reports on the activity phase in order to gain experiences and be able to draft a plan to control and improve ((all activities)) before, during, and after each phase. Train cadre on basic problems of serving the local areas. The Central Group office will prescribe a unified training program for every echelon. Region and province Groups use this program as a basis for preparing training documents.

Improve the operating procedures of organizations at all levels. Make irregular and regular reports, including preliminary reports and summaries of every activity phase.

Consolidate the Group machinery at all echelons in compliance with Resolution 3. The executive committees of district, province, and sub-region Groups should be elected by the end of Jun 70. The executive committees of every echelon must include female members. One-third ((of the total number of members)) should be women at village level, and one-fourth at sub-region, province, and district level. In areas inhabited by the ethnic minority, the executive committee must include members from the ethnic minority. This number will vary according to the number of ethnic minority people in the area. In an area where this number is large, the secretary or deputy secretary of the executive committee of that area should be from the ethnic minority.

d. Additional instructions concerning activities in cities, provincial capitals, and the outskirts of Saigon:

The Group Chapter in these areas should fully understand its overall political tasks: Conduct propaganda to indoctrinate the youths on revolutionary awareness, motivate them to participate in the Revolution, and organize them to attack the enemy in the political, military, and military proselyting fields. At the same time, develop Group members and members of various liberation organizations and indoctrinate, organize, and protect teenagers ((Group members)). When assigning Group members with missions, it is necessary to consider the overall ((situation)). Do not stress only the military aspects although they are very important; otherwise, the movement and agents will not be developed rapidly and thoroughly.

It is necessary to draft a plan to recruit ((agents)) in quarters, enterprises, and schools where agents are not available. Through Group members, recruit sympathizers as key agents. As the situation develops, establish new Group Chapters. Recruit Group members among workers, poor people, and women.

It is imperative to adopt a guideline for maintaining secrecy in revolutionary activities in order to consolidate our activities and operate continuously.

Beyond the organization system, we should conduct legal or semi-legal propaganda. When conducting illegal propaganda, it is necessary to feel out the situation first with semi-legal propaganda.

4. The task of organizing, strengthening, and guiding the assault youth forces in provinces and regions

The requirements of the battlefield increase every day. Meanwhile, motivation of civilian laborers is still difficult. Our Group echelons should play their role in motivating youths to take part in civilian labor missions. Civilian labor missions will determine whether we will attain small, great, continuous, or no achievements. Recently some regions and provinces have successfully organized their key assault youths to properly carry out this mission.

Attention should be paid to the following problems:

1. In the lowland battlefields, especially the battlefields in the Mekong Delta, it is necessary for the provinces to organize from one or two platoons to one company of full time concentrated assault youths of their own. In areas where this youth force is available, it is necessary to recruit or attain the prescribed strength.

Various Group echelons should assign cadre to tightly control them. The Group echelon should be concerned about providing close leadership for political and ideological indoctrination and Group development in units.

2. The Group echelons which have assigned assault youths to higher echelons and supervised various companies in their local areas, especially in Cà Mau, Rach Gia, Sóc Trăng, BẾN TRE, Mỹ Tho, and Sub-Region 2, should prepare a reserve assault youth force to be assigned to higher echelons immediately in case of need or when conditions are favorable. The province assault youth force can be assigned ((to higher echelons)) and will be replaced later.

3. Those cadre and assault youths who have been sent to the battlefield and whose health is poor must be properly assigned missions. Those who are qualified should be trained to become cadre, sent to training courses appropriate to their professional skill, then returned to serve the movement. The local Group echelons are responsible for providing them with general assistance.

Youth Group echelons should take care of wounded and sick soldiers and full time assault youths when returning to local areas, and advise local authorities to support these sick and wounded soldiers in compliance with ((Party)) policy. Heroes' families should be treated as those of liberation troops.

4. We should step up the organization of underground assault youths and study the assignment of missions suitable to their talent. Proper assignments should be made and capabilities improved.

5. Indoctrination and protection of teenagers.

We should indoctrinate the Youth Group echelons and their members to fully understand the importance and urgency of the teenager policy prescribed in Resolution 3 and Directive 60 in order to execute it properly.

Echelons should assign cadre to take responsibility for teenagers, recruit and improve the capabilities of teenage cadre to meet the requirements.

III. SOME WEAK POINTS THAT MUST BE CORRECTED.

While reviewing the general situation, we recognized that at present the weakest points of various echelons are as follows: The organization is not being extended to villages; implementation is slow; and leadership is not provided very widely. Although notable efforts and progress have been made in the past, echelons still have many shortcomings which must be corrected. They should have high determination to turn the resolutions of the Party and Youth Group into action by Party and Group members, thus creating the physical foundation to make the situation evolve in our favor.

We should try to carry out the following immediate missions:

1. We should continue to conduct political reorientation courses for Group Chapters and motivate the people. This is the basic condition for creating great change and arousing the people to violence. Therefore, in areas where these missions have not been carried out, we should be determined to carry them out successfully, even in bordering and weak areas. In areas where we have already implemented these missions, we should recheck the organization and draft a plan for further consolidation and development. If an area has not been able to meet the requirements, we have to reorganize or consolidate it in such a way that it will achieve successes.

2. We should provide leadership for all group echelons in conducting political reorientation for village cadre, and motivating the people in villages and hamlets. They are the infrastructure, but they are very weak now. Therefore, all echelons should clearly determine their responsibility and take positive part in the establishment of strong villages and hamlets.

In establishing a village or hamlet we should organize the Youth Group (village Youth Group, Group Chapter) to unite youths. At the same time, we should also organize the district Youth Group. The Group Chapter should fully understand the political missions of its local area and know present specific tasks so that the Youth Group can accomplish these political missions.

Party Chapters should properly comply with the guideline for three-pronged attacks in mountainous and lowland areas and should not ignore any one of the three. Participation of youths in the military field should be emphasized. The Group Chapters should play the key role in establishing guerrilla forces and combat villages and hamlets. They should keep abreast of the youth force through various organizations in the local areas; and motivate the combat youth force to take part in military offensives, perform military and enemy proselyting tasks, protect themselves, and take a positive part in farm production.

Try to establish and improve the capabilities of cadre in various organizations:

3. Cadre should fully understand the guideline for struggles in the lowland, mountainous, and city areas. They should be conscious of the importance of each area and not belittle any area. However, they should attach immediate importance to the lowland area where we are trying to frustrate the enemy's accelerated pacification plan, and his Vietnamization plan. In addition, cadre should make sure that youths in the rural areas realize the importance of their struggle.

4. It is necessary that we provide guidance for cadre at all levels to improve their operating procedures. Group Chapters and village Youth Groups should pay special attention to these points:

General plans should be well drafted:

It should involve various fields, to include leading Group members and combat youths to carry out combat missions, promoting the Five-Volunteer movement, developing the Youth Group, admitting additional members to civilian organizations, conducting political indoctrination within the Youth Group, and motivating the people and youths etc... ((sic)). In drafting a plan, ((cadre)) should use the resolutions of the Party and Youth Group as a basis.

After drafting the plan, cadre should implement it.

When the climaxing phase is reached, cadre should continue to use this overall plan as a basis for performing the tasks more intensively as well as for mobilizing ((the Youth Group)) more positively. Cadre should attend to consolidation of forces and coordination of activities in all fields when reaching the climaxing phase.

In addition, cadre should promptly submit preliminary and recapitulative reports on results and on outstanding members. These reports will be popularized and used as training material.

5. Cadre should step up the Five-Volunteer movement to frustrate the enemy's accelerated pacification plan, kill tyrants, break his oppressive control of the population, disorganize the People's Self-Defense Force, liberate villages and hamlets, and oppose his conscription and organization of militia forces. They should especially motivate the people to establish strong combat villages in order to protect youths against conscription and prevent them from moving to cities. When stepping up the movement in weak areas, cadre should try to actively prevent the enemy from conducting counterraid. They should be very cautious in their use of forces. Covert forces should only be used in secret missions so that they can remain in the local areas to continue their tasks in the future. In addition, we should continue to foster and step up the movement.

These articles are requirements and guidelines for the missions that the Group Current Affairs Committee, C69 ((COSVN)), outlined for its subordinate T, P, and U ((sic)). Group echelons should study and draft a plan to guide their local areas and submit reports to the committee so that it may follow their activities.
