1966 Summer Mission of Agricultural Site 5

The document, dated 3 Jun 66, from JCS 1966, Quyet Tan, refers to the 2nd phase of the 1966 summer mission of VC regular units in Phu Yen Province. Detachments and 4th Intelligence Center (ARMY). Following is a summary of the salient points covered by this document.

After giving an assessment of both the enemy (Allies) and friendly (VC) situations in which it is claimed that the VC put out of action 114,700 Allied personnel in the first 6 months of 1966, the document admits that the increased military activities of the Allies in Phu Yen province aided in expansion of VC controlled areas and caused considerable difficulties and to both the VC local and regular armed units of the province. However, despite the Allied troops' efforts in the implementation of their Pacification Program, the situation of the VC in Phu Yen could not be restored due to the fierce resistance of the population which have been supplying VC armed units with food and manpower.

In order to expand the liberated areas in the province, it is imperative that the effort in political indoctrination and motivation be stepped up to further the determination of both the military personnel and civilian population to fight and destroy the enemy. The annihilation of one or more Allied armed units will force the enemy to bring more troops into the province and consequently relieve the pressure on other provinces.

The tactic recommended by the document for the 1966 summer activities is the well-known tactic of attacking a coastal and intestine reinforcement. Special effort must be made by VC regular units to completely annihilate the enemy reinforcements in the shortest period of time so as to prevent the VC troops (usually local force) from being destroyed by the enemy and, thus maintain the faith of the local units and populace in the might and capability of the VC regular force units.
